Ditesco receives CMAA Colorado Project Achievement Award for Meadows Transmission Main

Fort Collins, CO --- May 22, 2015: Ditesco, a local program, project, and construction management services firm in Fort Collins, Colorado, has been awarded with the Colorado Construction Management Association of America's (CMAA) 2015 Project Achievement Award for the Meadows Transmission Main Replacement project in Loveland, CO.

The award was presented at CMAA's Owner's Night Award Dinner in Englewood on May 21, 2015. The Meadows project was awarded in the "Infrastructure – Constructed Value Less Than $20 Million" category.

The Meadows Transmission Main Replacement project, which was brought in on time and $290,000 under budget, restored approximately half of the service capacity of the City of Loveland's potable water following flood damage sustained in 2013. The prime focus of the work - 4000 linear feet of 48-inch steel pipe and river slope revetment - was designed, procured, solicited and constructed in a 6 month period, including fabrication of $1.1 million of steel pipe. The full project included 4,500 linear feet of 48-inch steel pipe installation in two phases, 5 cast-in-place valve vaults, 6000 cubic yards of 24-inch riprap river bank revetment, 4,300 linear feet of new access road, extensive site grading, and 18 acres of seeding and restoration.

The construction management team was able to achieve these goals on an accelerated schedule by implementing project protocols to identify risk early and provide successful project delivery.

In addition to keeping the project under budget, the project team completed this critical waterline prior to the high water demand season, ensuring that no water restrictions were placed on the City of Loveland. It was the quick and innovative work of the people involved that made the full delivery of this high quality project in such a tight window possible.

The Meadows Transmission Main was completed on December 5, 2014.
